U. S. DELEGATES AWAIT REPORT BY MARSHALL

Secretary to Advise Americans of Program At U. N. Verbal Bouts

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall headed back to the United Nations assembly tonight to lay down final instructions for the American campaign to combat Andrei Y. Vishinsky's slashing attacks and push for revision of U. N. peace machinery.

After consultation with President Truman in Washington, Marshall will deliver his opening address tomorrow morning. He then, presumably, will report on his White House talks.

The diplomatic background will shift, probably on Wednesday, to U. N. headquarters at nearby Lake Success where the regular 55-nation committee and another special 55-nation committee on Palestine will meet.

There will come the close give-and-take in the verbal battles, with the United States delegation ready to meet Vishinsky on grounds of its choosing. It has been emphasized that any reply to Vishinsky, beyond Warren R. Austin's week-end speech at the Waldorf Astoria, would come on specific issues in these committees.

Except for week-end or emergency trips to Washington, Marshall was expected to remain here, throughout the assembly, as personal on-the-spot director of his program. He was likely to allow his main delegates to handle most of the actual debate.

This means that the lead in the political committee, which has almost all the explosive issues, will be carried by Austin, John Foster Dulles and Tschel V. Johnson.

It is also possible that Dulles, specifically by Vishinsky on the assembly floor, may become one of the most important members of the delegation.

Dulles, speculatively assigned the job of secretary of state under a Republican administration during Thomas E. Dewey's unsuccessful 1944 bid for President, was expected to debate Marshall's two top proposals for the setting up of a year-around assembly of the 55 nations and for discussion of Korean independence.

There was also a strong possibility that Dulles would be the man to sign to battle Vishinsky on Russia's pet proposal for an end to warlike propaganda.

Taft Dares Democrat Leaders To Offer Solution to High Prices

LAKE TAHOE, Nev., Sept. 22 (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today branded "intemperate and untrue" Democratic charges that Taft was one of those primarily responsible for high prices and he challenged Democratic spokesmen to "state their solution instead of calling names."

Taft was retorting to statements by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) and Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) issued through the Democratic national committee that he led the drive to repeal OPA.

"The Democratic high command," Taft told a news conference, "has been planning to blame the Republicans for high prices, and from the intemperate and untrue personal attacks in a statement by Senator Lucas and O'Mahoney, they are very much up to speed. Indeed that anyone should point out the obvious truth."

As for the OPA bill of 1946 of which the senators complain they were passed by a Democratic Congress, Taft said they were finally repealed by President Truman before the Republicans took over Congress.

In saying that he welcomed debate on the question of responsibility for present high prices, Taft renewed his accusation that the high cost of living was the result of 14 years of Democratic administration.

"Do Messrs. Lucas and O'Mahoney desire to re-establish OPA?" Taft asked.

"Suppose they state their solution for high prices instead of calling names?"

Senator Taft spent the night in his high Sierra resort putting the finishing touches to major labor and international policy addresses to be made in the Pacific Northwest later this week.

Tomorrow night he will talk on labor in Seattle, and will discuss international affairs Thursday at Tacoma.

LOUISE OVERELL REMAINS COOL TO BOY FRIEND

Murder Trial Defendants Ignore Each Other as State Presses Its Case

SANTA ANA, Calif., Sept. 22 (AP)—As the yacht deaths trial entered its 18th week today, the State plugged away on its theory that Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell were black-gunned to death aboard their craft on March 15 before a dynamite blast sank the vessel.

Spectator interest centered on the apparently chilly relations between Louise Overell, 18-year-old heiress charged with murdering her parents, and George "Bud" Gollum, her boy friend and co-defendant.

Louise and Gollum, who once held hands and chatted happily at the stand, have appeared cool toward each other since the court reading of torrid love letters exchanged between them in jail.

Today Louise entered the courtroom and talked with her attorneys, painted, ignoring Gollum. The youth gave her occasional frosty glances but made no effort to speak.

Attorneys, who the past week estimated it might require another month to go through a rebuttal and sur-rebuttal fight, over Overell's bodily position at the time of the explosion, revised their guesses today and it appeared possible that the case might end in a day or so with another visit by the jury to the damaged yacht. Then, after instructions and final arguments, the jury could begin its deliberations by Oct. 1.

Much of today's session found Roger Greene, criminologist for the State department of justice, on the stand bolstering the State's claim that Overell's wounds, including a shattered hip and many body lacerations, were caused by a blast in the forward cabin. Simultaneous explosions occurred in the cabin and in the adjoining engine room, Greene maintained. He claimed that the Los Angeles financier was sprawled on the deck after being knocked down a ladder by a blow on the head.

Wallace Says U. S. Can't Win Next War

BOSTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Even with its wealth and atom bombs, Henry A. Wallace said today, the United States "will never win a third world war."

Wallace, speaking at the annual convention of the CIO United Electrical Workers, declared that in the event of another war the United States would not have strong allies, and he added "The war that is being brewed for us must be stopped."

Wallace also called for a special session of Congress to enact a new rationing and price control bill "with teeth in it," assailed the Taft-Hartley Labor act, and termed the loyalty investigation of Federal employees an "inquisition."

The former vice president—who is urged in his resolutions before the U. E. W. convention to run for President—told the 1000 delegates he would continue to "work within the Democratic party, unless and until I am convinced that this Administration is committed to Red-baiting the R.D.-baiters, and to fomenting a final war."

Wallace also singled out Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for his suggestion that the American people could help bring down prices by eating less, declaring:

"If the total program of the men in power today is advice to eat less—we shall eat less and less and less."

WALLACE SAYS U. S. CAN'T WIN NEXT WAR

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 22 (AP)—Karel Smutka, vice president of the Slovak state council of ministers, told a partisan congress today that a new conspiracy to overthrow the Czechoslovak government had been discovered in Slovakia.

The new plot, he said, was more serious and dangerous than one uncovered the past week in which 106 persons have been formally charged and will be tried.

He gave no further details concerning the new conspiracy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—New York's last farewell to Pirella H. LaGuardia today at a quiet, solemn funeral service in the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Ten thousand persons, an all-time record crowd for the huge cathedral, gathered in a final gesture of respect to the little firebrand who as mayor ruled the destinies of the nation's largest city in the years of recovery from depression and during World War II.

Dignitaries led by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Mayor William O'Dwyer were prominent in the throng of mourners.

The funeral cortege went from the cathedral to Woodlawn cemetery in the Bronx, where LaGuardia was buried.

The former mayor died Saturday of cancer of the pancreas at the age of 64.

Vinson Asks Bar Group to Extend Legal Aid Plan on National Scale

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson today urged the American Bar association to extend nationally its program of legal aid for persons unable to afford lawyers' fees.

In a surprise appearance before ABA's legal aid committee, on the opening day of the association's 50th annual meeting, the country's highest jurist told members they "may well be proud" of bringing low-cost help to 51 large cities, but added "there is much to be done in the future."

"Legal aid for the poor should not only exist in the cities," Vinson declared, "it should be nation-wide to protect the rights of those who cannot protect themselves."

"It requires the individual efforts of members of the bench and the bar to provide help for those who otherwise lack the protection of our courts."

The nearly 3000 delegates buckled down to professional deliberations after President Carl B. Rax of Milwaukee, addressing the opening assembly, urged the law profession to support a "firm, determined" American foreign policy in support of free government and in opposition to aggressors.

He maintained that Soviet policy is based on principles of world revolution "by any and all means of aggression," and declared that Russia's rulers "stand alone with a few satellites between all the other nations of the world and peace for a thousand years."

as inflation increases and a depression is made inevitable."

Second Tropical Storm Nears Florida Coast
MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP) — A second, less menacing tropical storm picked up speed off the Florida West coast tonight, five days after the first swept out of Florida to rake the Gulf coast to Louisiana and leave a total of 44 dead and property damage of $75,000,000.

ROBOT PLANE —
off the pilot, Wright field officers said, but "it grew like Topsy."
The experimental plane already had made another automatic flight in some respects tougher than the transatlantic hop though not as long. It was flown over the mountains and through aerial traffic from Muroc, Calif., to Wilmington, Ohio, several months ago.
Some of the elements embodied in the "mechanical brain" were employed during the way to fly war-way bombers, without crews, toward enemy installations with heavy explosive cargoes. In that earlier stage, however, crews flew the planes as far as they could go over friendly territory, then parachuted out after setting the controls for a target. Officers said the experiment was not too successful.

40 Hours Adoration Rites To Be Concluded Tonight
The Forty Hours Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament—services commemorating the period during which the sacred body of Christ was in the sepulchre—will close tonight at 8 o'clock in St. Aloysius church with a solemn procession and a procession of priests, altar boys and parochial school girls.
This service will be addressed by the Rev. Alfred Myers, whose sermon topic will be "Sacrifice of the Mass." Last night the Rev. Myers spoke at a special service on Prayer.
The Pro Pace, or mass for peace, was celebrated yesterday morning by the Rev. David Leahy.
One important aspect of the adoration services, the Rev. Leahy declared, is to combat the growing forces that are "not only anti-Christ and anti-religious but also anti-God."

Belgium is both one of the world's most highly industrialized countries and one of the most productive agricultural regions.

He said that the West Pottsgrove school had cooperated by sending out questionnaires to all parents, asking if they were willing for the children to be released early, and to indicate which church the children are to attend.
The instructors will include the Rev. Paul C. Schaeffer, pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church, at that church; Miss Ruth Keller at the Brethren in Christ Mission; Mrs. Gerald D. Levenson, grades 3-4, and the Rev. Anderson, grades 5-6 at St. Peter's.
The three Stowe ministers met with Superintendent Principal James T. Jones, of the West Pottsgrove school, the past Tuesday morning to make final plans for the opening of the schools next week.

READERS SAY:
Big Boys Frightened As Patriotism Ebbs
By MERCURY READERS

The Freedom Train Appraised
To the Editor: With prices going up, up and up and our congress doing nothing but taking surveys and vacations and our veterans begging for houses while the housing material gets shipped overseas. They now give us a freedom train to look at.

This naive and infantile scheme is a confession that patriotism is at low ebb in this country. This is a good sign as it is an indication that the people are beginning to see the light.

This freedom train will give the workers in the low-income groups a chance to bow in reverence before the documents that doom them to live in rickety tenements and disease-infested slums.

These historic documents give the hungry workers of our nation the right to accept wages that the well-fed and prosperous parasites who own their jobs offer them. They also give billion-dollar corporations the right to pay their presidents $200,000 a year because they can keep the boys and girls at work for $2000 a year.

These were great documents when written, which was long before the President of the United States had to plead with and beseech big business to be reasonable, knowing all the while that his efforts were about as useless as asking the devil to be a Christian.

Today the big boys are getting frightened, afraid of Communism or any other form of government of the people, by the people and principally for the common people afraid of capitalism's future and afraid of capitalism's critics, afraid of losing democracy, yet increasingly afraid of practicing it.

WASHINGTON
Lewis Dominates Labor Picture
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—John L. Lewis completely dominated the recent meeting of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor at Chicago where the big moguls of the organization decided to fight the Taft-Hartley Law in the courts, in the next session of Congress and at the polls in the presidential and Congressional elections of 1948.

The toughest members of the ruling body, including Daniel J. Tobin, Democrat, and William H. Green, Republican, arrived at the Windy City in a moderate mood. President William Green, of course, was, as usual, only a figurehead. But all three were willing to sign the required affidavits that they were not Communists.

Under the ruling of Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, union officials must take this anti-Communist oath, or forfeit all rights and privileges which they enjoy under the Wagner and Taft-Hartley Acts. The timid trio dreaded this prospect, fearing that the rival CIO might comply and, with NLRB aid, raid the AFL unions.

SHAKESPEARE: John L. Lewis, however, was in his finest Shakespearean hour. He dragged his 260 pounds out of an overstuffed chair in the committee's ornate suite on the tenth floor of the Ritz Drake Hotel.

"Gentlemen," he said, "Don't wait until the storm strikes you and there is no safety cellar in sight. It is raining now. Get out your umbrellas."

"You cannot comply with one provision of this infamous statute without giving hostages to all. We must fight the law from the first to the last paragraph."

"Two sections, in particular, we must defy. We are not Communists, so why concede that there is a red stain among us by swearing to the contrary. We must also vitiate the provision which says that we cannot spend money in primaries and elections."

"Sign, if you want to. But I, as head of the United Mine Workers, will never sign. And if I don't, your signing will be of no avail. We stand or fall together. Furthermore, I guarantee that if we lead in defying this outrageous law, Phil Murray's CIO will trail along."

STRATEGY: Lewis' strategy was obvious, although he had to explain it in elementary language to less astute members of the committee at closed sessions. When he opened the eyes to his ulterior purpose, they readily agreed.

Denham, as general counsel, maintaining that it is his right and duty to interpret the law, and it was under this assumption that he made his ruling about the anti-Communist oath.

Some board members disagree with both Denham interpretations. They think that they can override him. They also believe that it is not necessary for all officials of a union to sign up. Under this interpretation, the AF of L could comply, despite the United Mine Workers' refusal.

What Lewis has done is to force the board to ratify or overrule its general counsel. By this strategy, he already has created dissension within the NLRB.

His underlying scheme is to force President Truman to make the final decision, in the belief that the choice will embarrass the White House on the eve of the presidential campaign.

CHALLENGE: The AF of L will challenge the Taft-Hartley Law's restrictions on organized labor's political activities when they hold their annual convention in San Francisco. It will open on October 6 and last for two weeks. The CIO will stage their yearly get-together almost simultaneously at Boston.

The executive committee secretly decided to pursue the same strategy which Sidney Hillman laid down in the 1940 and 1944 presidential campaigns. They will form an auxiliary, political organization like the old PAC and supply it with funds from union treasuries, which constitutes another defiance of the Taft-Hartley Act.

They will force or persuade every union member to register. Should the CIO join the campaign, as expected, this means that they will try to drive 15,000,000 members and their families to the primary and election polls. They will provide funds, workers' transportation and even baby-sitters on Election Day.

LABOR: Organized labor, if there is such a thing as a solid vote among the nation's unionized workers, probably will favor President Truman next year, although not entirely satisfied with his performance. They regard him as a mediocre executive who is "sitting out the storm." But he has not been too hard on them and they realize that he is a protection against a conservative Republican Congress.

Their Republican choices are (1) Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and (2) Gov. Earl Warren of California. The latter has slipped from favor in the last year but they look upon him as friendly, understanding and sufficiently liberal for their needs.

In labor circles, especially since the Chicago executive conference, the talk centers on a Dewey-Warren ticket.

Robert A. Taft, they maintain, that his nomination would insure President Truman's re-election. They do not relish the idea of a military man in the White House, which makes them cold to the Eisenhower and MacArthur booms. Generally uneasy over the Administration's foreign policy, they dismiss Senator Vandenberg of Michigan because of his sponsorship of Truman-Marshall ideas on Capitol Hill.

In Hollywood
By JIMMIE FIDLER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 22—Sidney Miller reports that he's a bit groggy as the result of his latest experience in radio. Offered a guest spot to do narration for the "Lassie" program, he accepted without bothering to ask about credits. The script called for him (speaking for Lassie) to do a 15-minute monologue. When he had finished, the announcer took over. "Thank you, Lassie," he said, "for a wonderful performance!"

The other day Larry Parks, who's currently singing Columbia Studios for a release from his contract, received a phone call from Columbia's biggest boss, Harry Cohn, inviting him to dinner. "What shall I wear?" countered Parks. "My tuxedo—or my law suit?"

I never see Lana Turner (more beautiful now than ever before) without recalling a wartime camp show at which she appeared. Five or six experienced vaudevillians were on the bill ahead of her and each one had contributed a top-notch specialty number. Lana, when it came her turn, stood in the spotlight and gestured helplessly. "I can't dance, and I can't sing," she confessed. "In fact, I don't know what I can do for you boys." At that moment, from far back in the audience, came a deep bass voice. "Just stand there, sister, just stand there!" it roared.

Victory in the years-long Hope-Crosby feud rests with Bing—this week. Before starting his current film, "The Paleface," Hope observed loudly in the Paramount cafe that for once he was going to make a picture without "Crosby in it." Bing promptly offered him a sizeable bet that "Crosby" will get into at least one scene of "The Paleface." Bob accepted the bet. "Groaner" made no effort to sneak before the cameras himself. He merely sold the studio on the idea of casting Wade Crosby, a veteran character man, as one of the heavies in "The Paleface." Bob, admitting that he had not spotted Bing Crosby in particular, paid up like a good sport.

There's something a bit disheartening about the news that Peter Shaw will be dropped from MGM's list of contract players. Shaw is the young Irish actor who received a glamorous build-up about a year ago when he was linked romantically with Lana Turner, Joan Crawford and Marie McDonald. Despite all of the high-pressure publicity and in spite of MGM's "big plans" for his future, he's never been given a single screen role. To drop him without giving him an adequate opportunity to demonstrate his ability doesn't seem like fair play. In any league, a man should be given his chance at bat before he's called out.

Joan Crawford's scheduled trip to Honolulu has caused her indignation. A columnist reported that the peppy, tan magazines wanted to send a photographer with her, thereby robbing her of her sacred "privacy." I see no cause of indignation on anyone's part—especially Joan's. Those same fan magazines have played no small part in her climb to stardom. They were loyal to her and fought her battles on several occasions when it seemed that her career had reached its end. As old friends, who have done her immeasurable good over a long period of years, the magazine editors, I think are entitled to claim special privileges.

Politician's Grab
THE big rush to get their hands into the borough treasury trough is on by Pottstown politicians. They're as avid as a flock of vultures.

They're in such a hurry to set up soft jobs for the "boys who helped the party" that they can't wait until the funds come pouring into borough hall.

This desire to create sinecures for party beneficiaries was whetted by the acquisition of the Pottstown Water company.

The politicians fairly drooled when they envisioned water revenue flooding into borough hall.

So they're grandiose plans to squander the money... if the public let 'em!

The excuse will be this:

With the purchase of the water company, Borough Manager Dow I. Sears' duties will be increased. He'll need help. So why not give him the aid of good party workers? ask the politicians.

Their premise is correct. Mr. Sears' duties will increase. He will need help. BUT HELL, NEED COMPETENT HELP. He doesn't need foot-on-the-desk ward workers.

The fact is, Mr. Sears needed help for months. He needs engineering help. He needs qualified men who can lay sewer lines, pipe lines, build streets, make topographical surveys, and so forth, WITHOUT CONTINUOUS SUPERVISION.

The public would stand for employing that type person—someone who would earn his salt. BUT THE PUBLIC SHOULD NOT STAND FOR ANY PUTTING OF POLITICIANS INTO SOFT JOBS AT BOROUGH HALL.

The politicians seem to think the purchase of the water company should be the peg on which they can hang responsibility for giving party workers soft jobs and high salaries.

The public should keep its eyes open for any increase of drones in borough hall... AND THEN SHOULD RESIST THE MOVE.

To the Editor: The revival of grandma's fashions, meekly disapproved but permitted by America's womanhood, is a disappointment to me.

The Worry Clinic
By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

ESTELLA V. 36, is mother of a 14-year-old girl.

"Dr. Crane, I've been married for 15 years to a childhood sweetheart," she opened our conference.

"My husband and I are physically attracted to each other, in fact more so now than during the first few years of our marriage, for we've read several of your sex bulletins. My child always came second in my affections, whereas my husband worshipped her, so we didn't get along so well at the start, for I was jealous of her."

"For years, however, I have thought of a former boy friend whom I had met and engaged to my husband. I never let this boy friend even kiss me."

"But five years ago, I had an affair with another man. He was a good conversationalist, a trait my husband lacked. Besides this, other man made me feel young again."

"During the past few years, I have had the desire for more romance in my life although I know that physically no one will ever replace my husband. At present I am fascinated by an older man, with whom I enjoy discussing serious problems."

"Dr. Crane, can you analyze my desire for other men? Although my sex life is almost perfect with my husband, I still seem to crave another lover."

Perhaps you readers have heard of nymphomaniacs who are women afflicted with an abnormal sexual desire. They freely go from the arms of one man to another. But sex isn't the basis of their immorality.

These women usually have an inferiority complex. For example, they may have flabby breasts, or have had their womb or ovaries removed, or be unusually tall, or feel inferior on the basis of race or age, etc.

They try to bolster up their vanity by repeated affairs with different men, which they use much as a cosmetic tonic. Then they begin feeling deflated in their feminine pride, a new affair helps reassure them, at least temporarily.

Estella illustrates the same tendency, and you will observe that her affair occurred when she had passed the age of 30. That is the first birthday that women normally dread.

Nymphomaniacs may have no more sex desire than the average woman, but they seek affairs with men as a tonic for their deflated feminine ego. Thus, Estella admits that she is well adjusted physically in her home.

But the new men make her feel young and intelligent, for they compliment her appearance and are good conversationalists. Incidentally, these trans are valuable for all husbands to consider.

Last week I explained that sexual compatibility is probably the best single safeguard in marriage. In that connection, you will notice today, therefore, that Estella makes no mention of divorce or of any desire to leave her husband. It isn't sexual hunger but ego hunger that bothers her.

She wants her vanity tickled by outside attention. So she uses these other men for cosmetic purposes, we might say. Estella was also an only child. She grew up without having to share with brothers and sisters. Inevitably, therefore, she developed the grandstanding complex. She wants to monopolize the family stage.

But her daughter diverted some of her husband's attention, thus causing jealousy. The girl now is large and well developed. She makes her selfish mother feel old. So mamma tries to reassure herself that she is still young and sufficiently attractive to win the attention of other men.

Marriage must be founded on unselfishness and common sense. Of course, there are usually several men who might set every woman's pulses pounding if she gave them a chance.

But a good wife must select one, and then stick faithfully to him, else she's not playing fairly.

Beats The Unbeatable

Can't defense can defeat lots of "unbeatable" contracts, and often does when a real thinker opposes the declarer. There is nothing which can upset a good player worse than to learn he could have made his contract, but allowed himself to be fooled by a sharp operator. The results are sometimes grotesque when he is intrigued into thinking the opponent's hand is utterly different from what it is.

North, with his woefully weak hand, decided a psychic was called for to impede his vulnerable opponents. Since his side was using the Vanderbilt Club system, he bid the 1-Club to open. South could easily read the psychic, as his own hand showed it was impossible for North to have 3-plus high card tricks. With his powerhouse, he asked for a possible slam with his 4-No Trumps bid. North, who had expected to take out into spades if the club bid got doubled, was afraid to call the suit after the No Trump call, so passed.

In the West was one of the world's greatest players, John P. Mathers. Realizing he had probably all the strength held against South, he planned to conceal it, leading the bottom of his club sequence, the 9, instead of the top, the K.

Able to count nine tricks, but not ten, South began by winning with the club A and running six spades. On these Mr. Mathers blanked both of his red kings and held his clubs South thereupon finessed the diamond Q and the now singleton K won. Four clubs followed, on the last of which South had to discard one of his last two cards, the red aces. He decided Mr. Mathers had retained a guard to the diamond K, so held his diamond A, discarding the heart A. The heart K then won the final trick, sixth for the defender.

South could have made his contract easily if West had played normally, discarding the clubs to hold guards to the two kings. One red ace could have been scored, the Q could have thrown Mr. Mathers in, and he would have had to lead into the other red A-Q from his own K.

START FROM WHERE YOU ARE—One day a stranger asked a citizen of the town: "How will I get to the railroad station?"
"You drive down this street one block—no, they're tearing up that street. You turn to the left at the next corner—no, that street is being tarred. You go to the right at the second corner—no, they're moving a house down the middle of that street. Say, if I were going to the railroad station, I wouldn't go from here."

Silly, isn't it? But not a whit sillier than a lot of things a lot of people do, or the mental processes by which they "think" and "plan." For instance, you can't start from where you were yesterday; you can't go anywhere except from where you are. Start now and from here. Otherwise you'll never get under way.—Rush Middlecombe.

PUT A POLISH ON DULL MOMENTS — Harry Emerson Fiedick tells of a young invalid who wrote to a friend: "At first I thought somehow to make the best of it, but now I am planning to make the most of it." Make the most of scrubbing a floor or ironing a basketful of laundry? Why not? While your hands are performing those routine tasks, your mind is free for excursions. It can go anywhere and do anything under the sun—mellow you with memories or intrigue you with plans for the future. Their Faces Must Be Red
ONE of the most interesting public opinion polls yet taken, Claude Robinson of the Opinion Research corporation set out to discover just what labor does think of the Taft-Hartley Law. His findings, published in the current issue of Look magazine, are remarkable.

First of all, 64 percent of the union men said they are opposed to the law. That was hardly surprising, in view of the fight against it conducted by union leaders. Mr. Robinson then took 10 of the bill's most controversial provisions and found that, when union members were asked specifically what they thought of each, a majority approved.

Here's the score:

To require unions to make reports on the money they take in	Approval in percentages
To forbid a union shop unless a majority vote for it	85
To require a 90-day cooling-off period	77
To prevent Communists from holding office	70
To make unions liable for violation of contract	70
To prohibit unions from making political contributions	50
To permit court orders to delay strikes in vital industries	70
To permit employers to discuss unionism with employees, providing no threat is used	81
To allow the check-off only if workers agree in writing	74

The lowest percentage of 30, in the matter of political contributions, was still a majority since 8 percent of those questioned had no opinion. The only one of the 10 points that did not win majority approval was the provision in the Taft-Hartley law against the closed shop. However, even on this point, 48 percent favored the provision, 43 percent opposed it and 9 percent had no opinion.

Mr. Robinson explains the contradiction by which union members say they are against the law, but still favor nine of its main provisions. When union men were asked what was contained in the bill, 54 percent of those questioned "were unable to name correctly a single specific provision." So it seems that, in their opposition to the law as a whole, the men were merely parroting the propaganda of their leaders.

YOUR HEALTH
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

WHEN we speak of chronic diseases we mean those which last a long time.

A better understanding of their nature is gained, however, if we realize that they usually result from the wear and tear of life. Thus, it is easy to see that they tend to develop in middle-aged and elderly people.

Some of these chronic diseases seem to come about simply as a part of the ageing process.

People are not at all like the "wonderful one-hoss shay," which went to pieces all in a day. In the human being, the breakdown is much more likely to come in one set of organs at a time, before it does in the other organs. The organs or organs that give out are different in different individuals. In one, the heart and blood vessels will be the first to flag or fail; in another, the kidneys; in still another, the liver.

This may mean only that people are constructed differently with individual strong and weak points. It may also indicate that they have been subjected to different accidents and strains in the course of their early life.

For instance, the man who develops a chronic inflammation of the kidneys at the age of 50 may find that his whole trouble started with some little damage done to the important organs by an infection contracted early in life and long since overcome.

Today, with a large proportion of our people living longer lives, the control of chronic diseases is more necessary and important than ever before.

It is time now to ask the question: "What kind of lives are they living?"

In a survey made some years ago, it was found that one out of every three persons over the age of 40 suffered from one or another chronic disease. For one person who died from hardened arteries, 39 were sick with the condition; for every one who died of cancer, there were two who were sick with the disease; for every death from heart disease, seven were ill, and in diabetes and kidney trouble.

If our ageing population is to be active, healthy, vigorous and useful to the nation this condition must be corrected.

How?

Well, consider for a moment the situation as regards heart disease.

Throughout the United States this continues to be the leading cause of death. One-third of fatal heart disorders are directly due to the degenerative conditions such as hardening of the arteries and coronary thrombosis.

Now no doctor can mend a damaged heart or restore youthful elasticity to hardened arteries. But if the patient comes to him early in the disease, he can do much to stop its progress and keep it from growing worse.

Dear Sir in Brother:

Wal, I see by The Mercury where Autumn is due to make its debut Tuesday afternoon. That may be true. But the Autumn miracle has been at our house for awhile—Junior doing his home work arithmetic problems and listening to the radio at the same time.

Which reminds that the atmosphere around home is a bit thick these days, now that the kids have taken to blowing those permanent plastic bubbles.

And say: Some fashion designers refer to the new lower neckline for skirts as the "new look." But the male half of the population isn't looking.

YOUR HEALTH
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

WHEN we speak of chronic diseases we mean those which last a long time.

A better understanding of their nature is gained, however, if we realize that they usually result from the wear and tear of life. Thus, it is easy to see that they tend to develop in middle-aged and elderly people.

Some of these chronic diseases seem to come about simply as a part of the ageing process.

People are not at all like the "wonderful one-hoss shay," which went to pieces all in a day. In the human being, the breakdown is much more likely to come in one set of organs at a time, before it does in the other organs. The organs or organs that give out are different in different individuals. In one, the heart and blood vessels will be the first to flag or fail; in another, the kidneys; in still another, the liver.

This may mean only that people are constructed differently with individual strong and weak points. It may also indicate that they have been subjected to different accidents and strains in the course of their early life.

For instance, the man who develops a chronic inflammation of the kidneys at the age of 50 may find that his whole trouble started with some little damage done to the important organs by an infection contracted early in life and long since overcome.

Friendship Company Votes to Purchase New Fire Fighter

The Minute Man fire apparatus of Royersford Friendship Fire company, which was put into service some 20 years ago, will be replaced by a larger Minute Man, following action of the company at a special meeting last night.

Accepting report and recommendation of the apparatus committee, Donald Mater, chairman, the company voted to purchase a new and more powerful chassis of modern design, and sell the old apparatus, which it was reported is still in good running order. This midsize apparatus, powered by an old Model A, four cylinder motor, was purchased for use in responding to fires where the larger apparatus was not needed and to save wear and tear on the big fire fighter. The new one will be of a larger type.

The company heard a disapproving report from the apparatus committee regarding the Ahrens-Fox pumper, which was ordered some months ago, delivery of which was expected soon. The committee reported delivery of the new, big pumper would not be made until at least four months and more probably not until in the Spring. It was explained the particular machine ordered is a distinctly new type and more time is required to build it than regular stock models.

Hospital Auxiliary Maps Future Plans

Numerous future activities were planned and present projects were furthered by the Inter-County Memorial hospital auxiliary at a meeting attended by 50 members last night in Royersford Methodist church with the president, Mrs. J. E. P. Burns, presiding.

October 18 was set as the date for Memorial hospital dedication day in Spring City, Royersford and Collegeville, the territory embraced in the scope of the auxiliary.

Additional projects for the future included a dance at Spring-Ford Country club Oct. 17, and a glee club chorus Oct. 18.

Miss Freda Schindler was named chairman of the dance to be given at Spring-Ford Country club Oct. 17. Music will be provided by Ken Nichols' orchestra. Reservations may be arranged with Miss Schindler or Mrs. Burns.

A male glee club concert will be given by the Washingtonians, of Coatesville, in Royersford High school auditorium Oct. 18.

With a present membership of 160, the auxiliary has now assumed responsibility for the operating room light in the Memorial hospital of Pottstown, and the nurses' dining room furniture.

Dorothy Mulford, superintendent of the hospital, gave her monthly report. A motion was carried to donate $10 to the Friendship Fire company ambulance fund.

10 Explorer Scouts Return From Hike To Berks High Point

Ten explorer scouts of Boyertown Post 3 and their leaders returned late Sunday night from a two-day hike and exploration trip to the Pinnacle, highest point in Berks county.

Leaving Boyertown on Saturday at 2 p. m., the group traveled by car to Hamburg watershed, where they lay down their packs and hiked along a side trail to meet the Appalachian trail. A hike of about two miles brought them to the Pinnacle side trail.

The scouts camped along this trail for the night at Seip cabin, near Gold Spring, where they had only water supply on the entire route. After breakfast they continued to the Pinnacle, where dinner was prepared. Following this, the veteran scouts spent some time exploring the rocks and caves in the surrounding area. Low clouds and fog obscured the view from the Pinnacle.

The hike back was via the Rim trail, which led past Pulpit rock and Windsor furnace, then to the watershed again. A light rain, which fell almost continually from 4 p. m. Saturday to 10 a. m. Sunday, failed to dampen the fun of the hikers.

On the hike were Phillip West, explorer guide; Robert Koons, Jack Frain, Eugene Johnson, Henry D. Johnson, Herman Kumpf, George Schwenk and Harold Meadow. Leaders in charge of the group were Eli Eisenhard and Douglass Sell.

Two Escape Injury As Trucks Collide

Operators of two motor trucks narrowly escaped injury yesterday morning when their vehicles collided on the narrow bridge on Route 73 at the Boyertown borough pumping station at 9:35 o'clock.

Uninjured were Robert Stengel, of Bally, who was driving East on the highway toward Boyertown, and Albert Pizolatta, of Allentown, who was proceeding toward Gabelsville. The accident occurred as a heavy rain swept the area and obstructed visibility.

Pizolatta, who was driving a meat provision truck, approached the bridge. Presumably realizing the bridge was too narrow for both vehicles, he applied his brakes as Stengel approached from the West. Because of the rain, the black top highway was slippery and Pizolatta skidded into the vehicle operated by the Bally man, ramming it against the concrete side of the bridge. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $600.

The differential on Stengel's truck was knocked out of line, as well as the left side of the body. The left front end of Pizolatta's truck was smashed, as well as the wheel, fender, bumper, and grill. State police of the West Reading barracks investigated.

Six Local Boy Scout Troops Meet; Games Are Played, Contests Announced

Games of "Capture the Flag," instruction on axe work and announcements of contests featured last night's meetings of six Pottstown area Boy Scout troops.

The Wolf patrol wore the flag at the gathering of Troop 7 in Seales Memorial Methodist church. Patrol members Harold Frederick, Jesse Ludy, Howard Reicheider and Richard Firing were successful in capturing the pennant two times out of three.

Instruction in sharpening knives and axes and in their proper use was given the troop by John Jacob, assistant scoutmaster, who was in charge of the meeting. After the axe work the 10 present played indoor volleyball.

An inter-patrol contest to last during the Fall months opened at Troop 5's meeting in Zion's Reformed church. Points will be scored on the basis of attendance, advancements, dues-paying and the bringing in of new members. Some of the first points were scored by five scouts in an observation contest.

Billy Bradigan successfully passed his tenderfoot tests, while Eugene Bertolet passed the knife and hatchet tests for second-class rating.

At the end of the meeting the troop saw sound movies on the Army-Navy games and camera oddities, which were presented by Troop committeeman Henry Maurer.

The meeting was in charge of Scoutmaster Harry Bernhart.

Sixteen members of Troop 8 joined instruction in knife and hatchet work and a general discussion of their use, under the leadership of Donald Fries, acting scoutmaster. Donald Miller proved the winner in Capture the Flag. Opening ceremonies were in charge of Richard Hatfield, while Oscar Darlington led the closing ceremonies.

Winners of Troop 14's contest which began the past July will be announced at next week's meeting. The contest is for individual scouts and is based on their attendance, advancements, wearing of proper uniform and other aspects of scouting. The first place winner will be awarded a mess kit, and a flashlight will go to the runner-up. Three new members were brought into Troop 14 and they had their first regular instruction when they joined 11 other scouts in watching Walter Scherter, scoutmaster, and Alfred Yerger, assistant scoutmaster, demonstrate knot-tying procedure.

Dick Spare gave 11 members of Troop 4 lessons in first aid necessary for passing second and first-class requirements. The short meeting was concluded with an inspection of uniforms, to encourage troop members to wear the full uniform properly at meetings. F. C. Shellenberger, assistant scoutmaster, was in charge of the meeting held in the First Methodist church.

Sowe Troop 1, meeting in St. Peter's Lutheran church, made plans for two camping trips this winter. One to Camp Delmont and the other to Hopewell Park. The 17 members present decided that the Christmas vacation and a weekend in January would be the best times for the trips. Most of the meeting was devoted to merit badge work and was concluded in a game of capture the flag which ended in a draw between the Red and White teams. Paul Miller, scoutmaster, was in charge.

Crowds Patronizing Mansion House Hotel Find Food Excellent

There is indeed pleasure in sitting down to a dinner when dining out where the service is good, the food excellent and the environment pleasant.

The combination of those three can not always be achieved, but folks who dine at the Mansion House hotel in West Chester believe they have found them and the crowds patronizing this historic but modern hostelry attest to that fact.

Serving this area since the stage-coach days when it was built, in 1831, the Mansion House Hotel has steadily built its reputation on good food plus paramount his statement that the suspension was only temporary.

SHANTA APPEAL —

This precipitated the legal duel as Caiola leaped to his feet and informed the commission that his interpretation of the law was that the suspension was only temporary, he declared:

"A suspension is a suspension," adding that in such a case, the commission is obliged to review an appeal.

Wells then proceeded to cite a borough ordinance which was enacted before the commission came into existence and never repealed. It decrees that the borough has the right to suspend a policeman as a disciplinary measure until the next meeting of the town council, at which time the council may discharge the officer, or re-instate him without loss or prejudice.

Leonard Miller, vice president of the commission, broke into the arguments of the two attorneys to ask if the commission was qualified to decide the legal interpretations which were placed on the laws. Both Myers and George H. Saylor, secretary of the commission, agreed with his question.

The question brought new citations from Caiola and Wells and the declaration that if the commission did not act in the matter Caiola would seek court action. Wells asserted he had no objection to that.

After conferring among themselves, the members of the commission agreed to abide by the decision of the borough solicitor. Wells advised them not to hear the case.

Wells then told Caiola he would agree to accept a stipulation of fact and that if he wished, Caiola could take the case to the Court of Common Pleas for a decision.

The charges on which Shanta was suspended were brought by Sgt. Linton on Aug. 23. In them, Linton charged that on the night of Aug. 20, Shanta was assigned to duty at High and Evans streets.

He said that he drove by at about 7:35 o'clock and saw Shanta in conversation with two men on the southeast corner of the intersection. At the same time, he charged, a man and a woman were attempting to cross the street and were caught in the middle of the road by traffic. The woman was almost struck by a car, Linton continued, and credited only the alertness of the driver with avoiding an accident.

About 20 or 25 minutes later, Linton charged, he again passed the intersection and Shanta was again in conversation with two men on the same corner.

He personally had noted similar occurrences previously, Linton went on, where pedestrians were crossing the street unaccompanied while Shanta was engaged in conversation.

The charges resulted in Shanta's suspension on Sept. 11. The Civil Service commission, because of new appointments, did not meet until Sept. 15, and Shanta received a copy of the charges on Sept. 16. His suspension was almost at an end.

Prior to the hearing, Caiola said that he had sought a continuance of the case in order to carry out an investigation, but that it was denied. He explained that he had wished to have three disinterested

Moose Lodge Initiates 20 Into Membership

A meeting of Pottstown lodge, 569, Loyal Order of Moose, was held last night with Governor John Sisk presiding.

Twenty were initiated into membership and 15 applications were received. Thirty other candidates were elected to become members.

Plans were made for a Member Night smoker to be held on Oct. 17.

A number of officers of the local lodge plan to visit Match Chunk lodge tomorrow and Friday. Anniversary Week is being observed there.

at the railroad crossing made the Reading concourse a one-way street open only to eastbound traffic, however, and it was necessary to change the bus route.

Johnson was reluctant to admit the change in which the buses now will go down High street to the concourse and then to the station because of the fact that the first route already had been advertised prior to the change.

It was necessary for him to call Harrisburg for approval of the change before accepting the application.

Final approval of the proposed bus line must be received from the PUC in Harrisburg before the line goes into operation.

Under the present plans, the line will run from Pottstown to Boyertown through Little Oliv, Colebrookdale, and the Halfway House. It will not affect or conflict with the present route which goes through New Hanover and Gilbertsville.

Borough Briefs

Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Kelley, of the Second ward, will send a summons to Ralph W. Mathias, Boyertown RD 1, who is charged by Patrolman Thomas Corum with failing to allow a Good Will ambulance the right of way at High and Washington streets the past Thursday at 12:30 a.m.

POLICE LODGE TO MEET

A monthly meeting of East Montgomery County Lodge, No. 14, Fraternal Order of Police, will be held tomorrow night in the American Legion home at Fort Washington. Members of the Pottstown police force are affiliated with the organization.

Police chiefs investigate the matter before the hearing was held.

Several discussions followed the meeting. In one, Griffith reaffirmed the position he took and told Caiola:

"As long as I am head of the police department, I am going to see to it that Pottstown has the best police department it is possible to have. That is what the people are paying for."

"I know Mike (Shanta) and I like him. But he knows that I have warned him about this before."

Turning to Shanta, he assured him that his position on the force would be unaffected, no matter how the case turned out.

"Nothing is going to be held against you," he asserted.

Nancy Jean Isett Becomes Bride In Bethel Church

Looking sweet and charming in her old-fashioned wedding gown, Miss Nancy Jean Isett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Isett, Ten Acres Farm, Saylor's Mill, Parkerford, became the bride of Mr. Lynn Wheaton Mitchell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Mitchell, Wilkes-Barre, yesterday morning in the Bethel Methodist church.

The Rev. Philip Worth, pastor, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with palms and salmon-colored gladioli.

Mr. Ferdinand Malenke, organist, presented appropriate bridal music. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was groomed in white more tulle. The gown had old-fashioned lines with a lace-trimmed neckline, cap sleeves and matching mitts. She wore a bouquet of white flowers and carried a fan like bouquet of ostrich plumes, orchids and tulle.

Mrs. Mary Lou Hendricks was the bride's only attendant and she was groomed in the new fall shade of deep blue. Her gown featured an off-the-shoulder neckline with a bustle in the back and she carried a bouquet of orange pompons with matching wreath in her hair.

Duties of best man were performed by Mr. Robert Mitchell, brother of the bridegroom and the ushers were Messrs. Neil Isett, brother of the bride, and Mr. Arthur Hendricks.

Mrs. Isett, mother of the bride, was attired in the new fall shade of brown with dark brown accessories and Mrs. Mitchell was dressed in aqua with black accessories. Both mothers wore a lavender orchid.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at Lakeside Inn. The inn was attractively decorated with bridal decorations and guests attended from New Wood, Ridley Park, Devon, Lancaster, East Orange, Royersford and Spring City.

The couple left on a honeymoon trip to New York City and the New England states. For traveling Mrs. Mitchell chose a brown fault suit with matching accessories and three white orchids from her bridal bouquet.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will reside in their newly furnished apartment at State college where the couple are attending Pennsylvania State College.

Local Dog-Owners Take Blue Ribbons At Reading Show

While Pottstown area dog-owners had no major winners at the Berks county Kennel club show in Reading Sunday, 13 local owners made entries. Seven blue ribbons, ranked below only the purple ribbon, were captured, and five other ribbons were won.

Paul Kilbourn, Pottstown kennel-man, said last night the number of entrants and spectators from Pottstown was encouraging and raised hopes of the formation here soon of a kennel club.

Most Pottstown owners entered the novice class, for dogs who have not won a blue ribbon before, or the limit class, for dogs with less than four blue ribbon wins.

Kilbourn explained that the long, unusual names of the dogs are due to the fact that rules require a unique name and that it is convenient if the name refers to the dog's owner, kennel or origin.

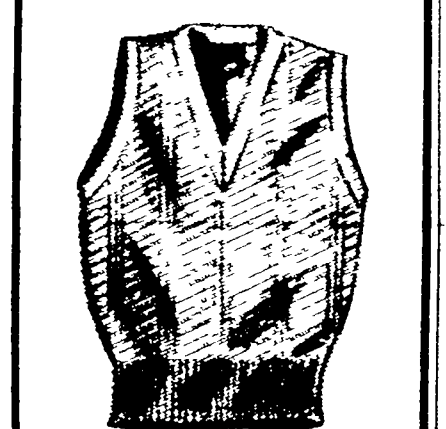

Local winners included: blue ribbon, novice dog, Red Irish setter, "Red Rock Boy's Amper," owned by Dr. J. W. Armstrong, 333 High street, third place, novice dog, Boxer, "Fudge of Sunset," owned by Mrs. Sol Berman, 1426 Sunset drive; second, novice bitch Boxer, "Fraulein of Out of Bounds," owned by Dr. F. B. Heimdel, Douglassville, blue ribbon, limit dog, Doberman, Kilburn Indecor, and blue ribbon, limit bitch, Doberman, "Dow's Petush of Kilbourn," both owned by Margaret K. Kilbourn, Chestnut and York streets.

Also, second, open dog, Boston terrier, "Green Bush Here's How Reply," owned by J. R. Kurtz, Sanatoga; second, novice dog, Boxer, "Seigneur of Berman," owned by William Pollock, 1329 South street; third, open bitch, Boston terrier, "Lady

DRIFTIN' AROUND WITH ELMER PANOC

DON KEELER and Guy Euston, former North Coventry High school gridders, are two of 40 candidates trying for starting berths on the Lebanon Valley college football team this fall.

Keeler is a sophomore at Lebanon Valley this year while Euston is entering the college as a freshman. Keeler was a lineman when he played for Norco's Wildcats and Euston was a back.

Keeler tips the scales at 190 pounds and measures 5 feet, 10 inches from head to toe. He is trying out for a guard position. According to line coach "Scoop" Peeser, the line situation at Lebanon Valley is an open battle for positions with only two gridders sure of retaining their starting roles. One of these gridders is Keeler, who played at one of the guard spots the past year. Keeler is in his third year at Lebanon Valley gridding and teams with Paul Mateyak at calling the opponents' plays.

Euston is just entering the college and will have quite a job trying for a backfield post. The former Norco back weighs 180 pounds and is 5 feet, 9 inches tall.

JOHN MISKO went fishing the past Saturday hoping that he could return to Pottstown with a fish larger than the one caught by a fellow fisherman.

The Pottstown angler even went to the same place where his opponent hooked a carp weighing 25 1/2 pounds and measuring 36 1/2 inches long. The site was Safe Harbor near Lancaster. Misko was accompanied by his brother, George, and a friend.

The trio spent 10 hours fishing and caught 18 fair sized fish before Misko landed the prize catch, a humpback weighing 28 1/2 pounds and measuring 37 1/2 inches long.

The local angler did just what he had hoped to do. He caught a fish weighing one more pound and measuring an inch longer than that of his opponent, John Yanusko.

Owners Will Decide Billy Herman's Fate

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22 (AP) — Three deeply concerned co-owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates will meet here tomorrow to decide if Manager Billy Herman is to blame for the fact that a tide of freely spent greenbacks has failed to put the Buccos up among the National League leaders.

No bones have been made of the fact that Herman's job is hanging in the balance. Frank E. McKinney, Pirate president, has said the owners would not hesitate to buy up Billy's contract if it is decided his managerial strategy is faulty.

Joe Yueros Captures Top Prize in First Football Contest

Only 32 entries were received for The Mercury's first football guessing contest, but 14 of them picked eight winners and gave the contest editor quite a time determining the winner.

After a few hours of checking and rechecking, Joe Yueros Jr. was acclaimed the winner with Dick Himes finishing a close second. Yueros makes his home at 68 South Charlotte street and Himes lives at 164 North Evans street.

Yueros was only one of 14 entries who picked eight out of ten in the contest, but he was more accurate than the other 13 in picking the scores. Himes picked the West Chester State Teachers college-Moravian score correctly, but he was farther away from the others than Yueros.

Yueros was only one point away from picking the correct score of 20-6 as West Chester defeated Moravian and his other scores were more accurate. By winning, he will receive four tickets to Friday night's grid opener at Franklin Field between Upper Merion and Pottstown.

Himes will receive two tickets to the same game for his second place prize.

Others who picked eight correct winners out of the ten games but who were off on the scores were Edward Hober, Bill Geisinger, Wayne Deegan, Melvin Newman, Mrs. B. D. King, James Longacre, Joe Geisner, Ray Vanderville, Tommy Krause, Bill Bowman, David Williams and Herbert Fry.

Williams and Geisinger also picked the right score of West Chester's 20-6 win over Moravian, but their other scores were far from right and couldn't compare with those of Yueros and Himes.

Czeiner and Fry picked Duquesne's 7-0 victory over Geneva correctly but like Williams and Geisinger, were not too accurate on the other scores. Actual scores:

Paris Paroled From Prison, Served 9 Months of Term

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Alvin J. Paris, central figure in last winter's attempt to "fix" a championship professional football game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears, was paroled from city prison today after serving nine months and one week of a one-year term for attempted bribery.

Paris, 29-year-old novelty salesman, testified as chief state witness in the trial of Harvey Stemmer, Jerome Zarowitz and David P. Krakauer. Stemmer and Krakauer were sent to prison for from five to ten years each and Zarowitz received a penitentiary term of from one to three years.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan requested leniency for Paris because of his aid to the State. Paris was convicted of attempting to bribe Giant stars Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes.

Trojans Strong in Punting Department

Trojans Hold Light Workout As Season's Opener Nears

Coach Heber T. Myers put his Pottstown High Trojans through a light workout yesterday afternoon but held a long blackboard drill in preparation for Friday night's opener with Upper Merion.

The blackboard drill was held following the report of scouts who watched Upper Merion lose its 1947 season's starter by a 21-6 score to Ambler High. The Trojans are now practicing new plays which they hope will be able to gain ground against the Spartans.

After the blackboard drill, the gridders spent an hour on the field running through the new plays and then were dismissed until this afternoon.

The coaches announced last night that today's session will probably be used for defensive work. The Trojan mentors said that the Spartans will be no pushover and that the Trojans will have to work as hard as any other game in order to come through with a victory.

The coaches are hopeful of a successful season and stated that there is a lot of good fruit on the Trojan squad. If it ripens, the locals will have a pretty good season.

The spirit of the Trojans is still impressing the mentors, but spirit alone will not win a ball game. The coaches said that the linemen will have to outplay the opponents' line if the Trojans are to win a ball game.

CHICAGO HANDS ST. LOUIS FOE A 6-3 SETBACK

Cards Win First Game By 4-2; Brooks Will Meet Yanks in Series

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22 (AP) —The Brooklyn Dodgers were presented with the National League pennant tonight when their second place rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, were defeated by the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 3, in the night game of a day-night doubleheader, played before 8000 shivering fans.

The defeat dropped the 1946 champions 7 1/2 games behind the idle league leaders, a deficit they will be unable to wipe out by the time the season closes Sunday. The Dodgers had an off day today.

The Dodgers thus emulated their World Series rivals, the New York Yankees, in clinching the pennant without lifting a bat. Just a week ago today the Yankees, idled by rain, were handed the American League flag as their closest competitors, the Boston Red Sox, were eliminated by the Chicago White Sox.

The Cardinals had prolonged their flickering flag hopes this afternoon by turning the Cubs back, 4 to 2, on the strength of Harry Brecheen's pitching and hitting. The little southpaw ace scattered seven Cub hits and drove in two runs with a single.

It was a different story tonight, however, with the Cubs pounding four Redbird pitchers for 14 hits while Paul Erickson and Johnny Schmitz limited the Cards to nine.

A two-run homer by rookie Cliff Abernethy off Murry Dickson sent the Cubs away to a first inning lead and they were never headed. A two-run single by Ray Mack in the fifth was another potent blow for the Bruin cause.

Armed-Assault Race May Be Called Off

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP) — The $100,000 match race between Armed and Assault scheduled for Saturday — already postponed once because of an injury to Assault — became doubtful tonight when it was learned that trainer Max Hirsch was not satisfied that Assault would be at his peak for the mile and a quarter special.

A final decision as to whether the race will be run or cancelled will be made tomorrow at a conference among owner Warren Wright and trainers Ben and Jimmy Jones for Armed; Hirsch and owner Robert J. Kieberg Jr. for Assault.

INDIANS DIVIDE DOUBLEHEADER WITH DETROIT

Four-Run Rally in Ninth Gives Tribe Victory in Nightcap by 7-6 Score

DETROIT, Sept. 22 (AP) — Hank Edwards' ninth inning homer dropped Detroit back into a second place tie with Boston by giving Cleveland a 7 to 4 nightcap win today after the Tigers had won the first game of a doubleheader 6 to 4.

With his three-run clutch homer Edwards matched Detroit's Roy Cullenbine, whose 24th home run was an inning earlier had given the Tigers a three-run lead and whose double in the eighth inning of the opener drove in the winning runs.

Edwards was the first man to face Virgil Trucks, who relieved Stubby Overmire after successive singles by Jim Hegan, Hal Rosen and Dale Mitchell started the fatal ninth. Trucks was charged with the loss. Ed Klemm gained the victory before Bobby Feller was called in to pitch the ninth and hurled one-hit ball.
